Mycorise Up! 2020

Youth in Mycology. II edition

Announcement No. 1

Dear Young Scientists,

We are pleased to invite you to participate in the second edition of MycoRise Up! organised on June 5-7, 2020 at the University of Life Sciences in Poznan. The Conference is organized by the Polish Mycological Society and co-organized by the Scientific Circle of Biotechnologists "Operon", working at the University and the Institute of Plant Genetics, Polish Academy of Sciences in Poznań.

The aim of the conference is to exchange experience and development of young scientists who have a passion for science and the integration of scientific community of young researchers at early steps of their career. We invite young scientists, mainly PhD, MSc and BSc students (without restrictions on the degree and year of study) who are familiar with mycology.

The subject of the conference is very wide and it includes:

- the biology and ecology of fungi,
- the genetics and genomics of fungi,
- mycotechnologist and mycoremediation,
- taxonomy, evolution and phylogenesis of fungi,
- the role of fungi in forestry, agriculture, health, industry and new technologies,
- plant, animal and human diseases caused by fungi,
- threat and protection of fungi,
- ethnomycology and growing of mushrooms and other fungi.

Presentations:

- oral presentation - 8 minutes
- poster presentation in multimedia form - 4 minutes

Both the presentation and the poster should be in pdf format.

Conference Calendar:

Till 15 April 2020 Deadline for the submission of applications

Till 15 April 2020 Deadline for the payment of the conference fee

Till 4 May 2020 Deadline for the submission of abstracts

The conference will be supervised by the Scientific Committee, which qualifies the submitted works for oral / poster speech on the basis of abstracts received. The acceptance of the proposals depends on the level of research and quality of abstract preparation. Abstracts submitted after the deadline will not be included in the book of abstracts. Abstracts and affiliations of participants should be written in Polish and English.

Scientific Committee is composed of:

- 1) Prof. dr hab. Małgorzata Jędryczka, Institute of Plant Genetics, Polish Academy of Sciences; Poznań;
- 2) Prof. dr hab. Marek Siwulski, Department of Vegetable Crops, Poznan University of Life Sciences, Poznan;
- 3) Dr hab. Anna Biedunkiewicz, Department of Microbiology and Mycology, Faculty of Biology and Biotechnology, University of Warmia and Mazury, Olsztyn;
- 4) Dr Julia Pawłowska, Department of Molecular Filogenetics and Evolution, University of Warsaw, Warsaw.

Each participant will have the possibility to present the topics of their research in Polish or English, as part of an oral presentation and / or a multimedia poster. The best oral (3) and poster (3) presentations will be awarded. Each participant will receive a certificate confirming his participation in the Conference. In addition, it is possible to issue a certificate of acceptance of the speech to the Conference.

The total cost of participation is 120 PLN, and it includes: conference materials, including an abstract book (PDF file that will be sent by email to all Conference participants), coffee breaks with refreshments, participation in an integration meeting including BBQ. Participants cover their own accommodation and transport. Please transfer the conference fee before 15 April 2020 to the account of the Polish Mycological Society:

Bank PKO BP SA 3 oddział Łódź

Account number: 39 1020 3352 0000 1902 0192 8951. The title of the transfer is: Youth in Mycology, Participant's Name and Surname

Invoices will be issued for the person / unit transferring the entry fee. The unit will not get a bill (eg. University, Department, etc.), if the payment is made from a personal account.

ATTENTION! The conference fee is not refundable in case of the participant's resignation or failure to qualify for oral or poster speech.

More details will be sent to registered participants in the announcement No. 2 at the beginning of April 2020.
